

Night Ranger

First Ranger specialty lead by Ms. Leah was a blast but would not have been as successful without the help of Mr. Paul. Can you believe the Father of Scuba Rangers was loading and unloading tanks? Ms. Elaine attended her first specialty event and had a wonderful time working with the Rangers. The group that attended this event were some very advanced Rangers. The Caskey brothers helped set up and breakdown the course in the pool as this was their second Night Ranger. The most impressive part of the whole night was the fact that all the Rangers took the responsibility of putting their gear together and then breaking it down all by themselves. During our dive we ran the course several times making sure that all the Rangers got a chance to operate the dive light and then it was lights out for a dive in the total darkness. Night diving definitely makes a more confident diver. Parents, you should be extra proud of your Ranger. They have become a very responsible group of divers.

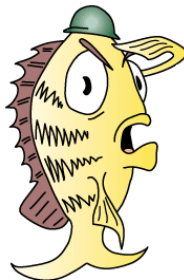

Logan Caskey

Ranger Standings

Parents make sure you stay updated on your Ranger's standings towards achieving Intermediate, Advanced, and Master Ranger. These standings can be found on the Scuba Ranger web page.

Click Here

Rangers & Shriners

Shriners Hospitals
for Children®

In June, Shriner's will host the Orthopedic Olympics for the children of the hospital. The Rangers have been invited to attend this event and show off their Scuba skills to all the patients and parents of Shriner's hospital. The infamous Shark Tank will be on display weeks ahead of time and it will also hold the water that the Rangers will dive and play games in. Mr. Paul will be running this event as I will be attending the last swim meet of the season. Don't forget your mask, fins, snorkel, and log book. Also, remember to check out their website.

www.shrinershq.org/hospitals/main

On the Horizon

As previously discussed I'm looking into a Ranger cruise for this summer. Tentatively I'm looking at a four night trip the last week of July. We would be departing from Galveston, stop in Cozumel, and return to Galveston. I'm looking for SERIOUSLY interested families that would like to make this happen with me. Follow this link for the trip and boat details.

<http://www.vacationstogo.com/fastdeal.cfm?deal=16172>

Please email or call me if you are interested.

Leah.ramoz@theswimschool.org

318.222.7946

Friday, March 26th, 6:00-9:00 pm

Rescue Ranger

This specialty will include skills that are taught in the Level 3 Rescue diving course. This is guaranteed to be loads of fun. Level 3 was my favorite diving course. Parents, this event is one your Ranger shouldn't miss.

Friday, April 30th, 6:00-9:00 pm

Cavern Ranger

Fun diving under the pool cover. Cavern diving is defined as a diver being able to see light from the surface at all times. It is also very dangerous, so stay out of caves. Mr. Paul has had two friends die in caves.

Friday, May 28th, 6:00-9:00 pm

Buddy Ranger

Bring a non-diving friend to learn to scuba while YOU instruct them. I would prefer that you bring someone who is interested in becoming a Ranger. This event is always a BLAST!

Friday, June 25th, 6:00-9:00 pm

Underwater checkers

Checkers underwater? Yes! We will use this event to raise money for the children at Shriner's. More details to come.

